WHY IS HOPKINSVILLE FIRM?
Because Its Citizens Have Learned The Truth.

After reading this generous and encouraging report from Mrs. O'Daniel, those who have the misfortune to suffer, as she did, will naturally long to get similar relief. But to get the same good as Mrs. O'Daniel had, you should get the same remedy. There are of course, other kidney pills but there are no other kidney pills the same as Doan's. That is why Hopkinsville people demand the genuine.
Mrs. J. E. O'Daniel, 603 O'Neil St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I suffered from pains in my back and sides and other troubles caused by weak kidneys. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the papers, I got a box and used them as directed. They quickly cured me. I know that they are the best kidney remedy to be had. I often advise friends and acquaintances to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."
Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. O'Daniel had. Foster-McBarn Co., Prop'rs., Buffalo, N. Y. Advertisement.

Where the Fabians First Met.
Clifford's Inn, by Temple Bar, which was recently sold at auction in London, has already undergone a good deal of reconstruction, though this has not so far materially damaged the last of the cloistral retreats behind the frontage of Fleet street. When the old buildings disappear, as seems inevitable, there will go a good many sets of chambers associated with famous men—among them the rooms occupied for many years, while his books were slowly making way among the discerning, by that pure eccentric Samuel Butler of "Crewdon." It was, by the way, in the little old hall of Clifford's Inn that the weekly meetings of the Fabian society were held for at least a decade and a half. It was there, indeed, that the old gang—Sidney Webb, Bernard Shaw, Hubert Bland, Graham Wallas, Sydney Olivier and the rest—finished and practised the debating game which in the nineties made them so powerful a band of controversialists.—Manchester Guardian.

Sale of Cottage Jan. 4.

Rash Vow Caused Insanity.
A story is told of a young man in England, a great chess enthusiast, who was so annoyed at his failure to solve an apparently simple problem that he vowed he would neither sleep nor eat until the solution was found. He shut himself up in a disused room, and was found four days later by his relatives, terribly emaciated and out of his mind. He spent a year in a lunatic asylum as the result of the rash vow, and the problem remains unsolved.

All Right Without "Explanation."
"Please read me the poem you're reading mother!" begged a little boy sweetly. "But I'm afraid it's too old for you, dear," his mother answered. "I'm afraid you wouldn't be able to understand it." "Oh, yes, I would," was the calm answer, "so long as you didn't try to explain."

FARM ANIMALS

KEEPING THE LITTERS APART

Few of Stronger Pigs Make Remarkable Growth by Robbing Youngsters of Their Nutrient.

It is certain that no one shelter-house is big enough for two litters of pigs. So far as ground space, ventilation and bedding is concerned there may be room enough and to spare, but that does not mean that the two litters or more will be able to get along and do well when kept together.

Where you are keeping a number of sows and their litters together in a pen, a lot or a shelter, it becomes a struggle for the survival of the fittest. The little fellows and those inclined to be weaklings get the worst of it. They are half starved in many instances.

You begin to wonder what is the matter with the majority of the pigs in the litters. A few of the stronger ones seem to be making a remarkable growth, and if you observe them for a day or two you will see just why. They are robbing the other youngsters of their nutrient.

The sows are unable to prevent it. The stronger pigs will nurse from a half dozen sows if there are that many in the enclosure. The sows may get up and walk away and try to get rid of these pirates, but that will not prevent them.

In every bunch of pigs kept in the same lot the strongest ones are certain to get a great deal more than their share of the milk. As they get bigger they get bolder and they nurse impartially from every sow in the lot. They will run from one sow to another, rooting away the weaker pigs.

disturbing a whole litter despite the efforts of the sows.

There is no use blaming the poor condition of such litters on the weather, the sows, the rations or the care the hired man is giving them. If you will take time enough to watch them for a while it won't take you long to pick out the milk thieves among them.

Separate houses or separate pens are the best solution. If the sows and pigs are running in a big lot or a pasture they will naturally feed together and keep together, and the weaker ones will suffer from the depredations of the more vigorous.

PROPER FEEDING FOR CALF

Change From Whole Milk to Skim Must Be Gradual—Allow Youngster Clean, Dry Paddock.

(By PROF. A. NYSTROM, Washington.)

The mother's milk should be fed the first week, beginning when the calf is 24 to 36 hours old. The milk must be fresh and warm, about ninety-five to one hundred degrees Fahrenheit, and must always be fed from a clean pail, preferably a tin pail. A wooden pail is too hard to keep sweet and clean.

The second week whole milk from any cow may be fed, and the third week, if the calf is in good health and growing nicely, the change to skim-milk may be begun. Do not make the mistake of feeding more skim-milk simply because the cream is removed. The whole milk contains about as much protein as the calf can handle and when skim-milk is fed in large quantities the calf gets more than he can use, and as a consequence a sick calf is the result.

The change from whole milk to skim-milk must be gradual; from one-half to one and one-half pounds a day, depending upon the size and vigor of calf. To an average calf, two weeks old, we would feed about twelve pounds a day of whole milk. The first day of the third week, or when it is desirable to begin the change, the daily feed would be eleven pounds of whole milk and one pound of skim-milk; the second day, ten pounds of whole milk and two pounds of skim-milk, and so on until the complete change is made. It is just as essential to feed the skim-milk warm as the whole milk, although when the calf gets larger and stronger, six to ten weeks old, a gradual change to cold milk may be made.

Allow the calf a clean, airy paddock or box stall in which to get exercise. Give him some well cured hay, such as timothy and clover, or timothy alone, as soon as he will eat it, which will be when he is from three to four weeks old. Alfalfa in small quantities may be fed, but with this roughage there is danger of the calf's eating more than he can properly digest.

Grain may be fed as soon as he will take it, and for this purpose a mixture of bran and crushed oats or crushed oats alone is recommended.
